

Top Five: Treehouse retreats across England

Once the sole province of young boys with scabbed knees and Ewoks, treehouses are suddenly springing up between branches and up trunks across the UK. From eco-chic to nature geek, they are tapping in to travellers' desire for the unusual and the unique. So channel your inner child, and make for the trees.

3. Fair Oak Farm, East Sussex

These new luxury eco-lodges are more tree-mansion than treehouse. Less up the tree than wedged between a mature cluster of sturdy trunks, the self-catering homes made entirely of sustainable timber have an en-suite wet room, queen-size bed and a private wraparound balcony. That certainly trumps the makeshift creations of our youth.
